Hazard Yet Forward

In his diary for June 25, 1857, Bishop James Roosevelt Bayley wrote: “Yesterday we held the first Commencement of Seton Hall College. ... The weather was beautiful ... everything went off well.”

Faced with a dilemma — how to educate his immigrant flock — Bayley, the first Bishop of Newark, opted in 1856 for the formation of a college that would enable Catholics in New Jersey to achieve their rightful place in society.

Since that time, the College’s original student body of five has grown to more than 10,000. Today, Seton Hall is the oldest diocesan university in the United States and has overcome numerous challenges during its storied history. It survived a move from its original home in Madison, New Jersey — currently the site of the College of Saint Elizabeth — to South Orange; a Civil War that forced many similar institutions to close; several disastrous fires; four major international wars; and at least five economic depressions — all menaces to the existence of any institution. The College, named in honor of Saint Elizabeth Ann Seton, aunt of Bishop Bayley, endowed only with the dedication of generations of devoted scholars and administrators, managed not only survival, but growth and academic distinction.

In successive expansions, the College converted its original mansion and adjacent buildings to a fully developed campus; grew from one school to eight — the College of Arts and Sciences, Stillman School of Business, College of Nursing, Immaculate Conception Seminary School of Theology, School of Health and Medical Sciences, School of Diplomacy and International Relations, School of Law and the College of Human Development, Culture and Media. Over the years, the University transitioned from an exclusively male institution to one proudly coeducational; rose from granting bachelor’s degrees to the conferring of doctoral degrees in science, education, nursing and health sciences; expanded from the personal library of the president to the Walsh Library, which houses more than 2 million titles; and evolved from an exclusively clerical institution to one in which clergy and laity join talents and energy to provide exemplary instruction.

For more than 160 years, Seton Hall’s mission has been to form servant leaders, to develop the whole student. Seton Hall challenges students to improve the world through excellence, integrity, compassion and service. To keep abreast of the expanding horizons of its scholars and professors and to address the spiritual and social needs of a growing student body, the University has expanded its facilities, combining the resources of a large university with the personal attention of a small liberal arts college. In 2018, Seton Hall opened an Interdisciplinary Health Sciences campus that houses the College of Nursing and School of Health and Medical Sciences along with Hackensack Meridian School of Medicine. By training students in an environment that mirrors how modern medical facilities operate, the University and its partner are establishing a new national model for healthcare education. Campus improvements include Bethany Hall, a campus welcome center; a transformation of the University Center that will revolutionize the student experience; and a renovation of the largest freshman residence hall, Boland Hall.

In terms of faculty research and publication, in the numbers of alumni who have contributed immeasurably to the economic, political and educational life of the state and the nation; in the creation of institutes that have expanded the horizons of the University to include a wide range of pursuits; in the increase of grants and awards won on the basis of achievement and anticipated research success, the University proclaims a suitably bold theme

FORWARD IN FAITH

The University Crest

A crest or coat of arms is intended to provide instant recognition. The Seton Hall University crest goes far back into antiquity. Associated as it is with both the Seton and Bayley families and with the Archdiocese of Newark, one would expect to discover in the present University crest some indication of all three relationships.

Because the University traces its relationship to the Seton family, the original Seton devices are on the crest. The three crescents, referring to the “Sea-Towns” of which the family was the warden, and the Charge, that is, the motto, Hazard Zet Forward, have been carried into the present crest.

The wavy band across the head of the crest refers to the Archdiocese of Newark, which uses a crest with three such bands to indicate the three rivers associated with the See of Newark: the Hudson, the Passaic and the Hackensack.

The book surmounting the crest is the usual symbol for an institution dedicated to the pursuit of learning. On the open book are superimposed the three globes taken from the crest of Archbishop Bayley, the founder of the University.

So the amended crest, created during the presidency of Bishop Dougherty, bears the symbol of the Seton family and of Saint Elizabeth Ann Bayley Seton for whom the University was named, together with the motto — as significant now as it was 1,000 years ago — Hazard Zet Forward (in spite of all hazards, go forward); the symbol of Archbishop Bayley, the founder; the symbol of the Archdiocese, whose Archbishop is chairman of the Board of Trustees; and the open book, universal symbol of colleges and universities.

Academic Costume

Academic costume is nearly eight centuries old. In medieval Europe, townspeople wore clothing of distinctive materials and colors to indicate their positions in life — their wealth or status, their guilds or professions. It was only natural, therefore, when students in the medieval universities of Paris, Bologna, Oxford and Cambridge began to organize into guilds, that they would develop distinctive costumes for bachelors (apprentices), masters (teachers) and doctors (teachers who had completed post-graduate study). Distinctions appeared most in the hoods.

American usage has been standardized by an intercollegiate code, which takes the Oxford costume as a starting point. The bachelor’s gown has long, pointed sleeves, and the master’s gown has oblong sleeves, open at the wrist. Both are untrimmed. The doctor’s gown has round, open sleeves, with three bars of velvet and velvet facing. The gown is normally black, but some institutions have adopted colored gowns.

The black cap, or mortarboard, also derives from the Oxford costume. The tassel, usually black, is worn on the right side before the conferral of the bachelor’s degree and then is worn on the left. A gold tassel indicates doctors and presidents.

The Legend of the Stole of Gratitude

Every graduate has had a special person who, through moral or financial support, made a big difference in his or her life. The Seton Hall University Stole of Gratitude offers an opportunity to say, "Thanks for helping me make it through." "Thanks for making it possible for me to succeed." "I didn't do this alone."

The Seton Hall Stole of Gratitude is worn during the graduation ceremony.

After the ceremony, the new graduate presents the Seton Hall Stole of Gratitude to someone who provided extraordinary support or who has helped with wisdom, words of encouragement, or financial assistance. Immediately after graduation, the graduate may take the stole from around his/her neck and place it around the neck of the recipient.

Presenters often write a few words of love and appreciation on the back of the Stole using a permanent, fine-tipped marker. Friends and family of the graduate may autograph the front or back. The Seton Hall Stole of Gratitude is a lasting symbol of love, appreciation and academic accomplishment.

The Mace

The mace, which is carried by the Grand Marshal, is a symbol of authority.

Student Speakers

The Commencement Speakers Committee, co-chaired by Daniel S. Katz, Ph.D., and Sam Ohrenberger-Hopkins, M.A., from the College of Human Development, Culture and Media, and comprised of a faculty member from each of Seton Hall's schools and colleges, invited the student with the highest GPA from each college and school to participate in a process to select a Valedictorian. These students were asked to write and deliver a commencement address reflecting on the meaning of their Seton Hall experience and how it has led to a special vision for the future. The student with the most highly ranked speeches, based on both content and delivery, was chosen to give the Valedictory address. Two runners up were also chosen.
